New ranges of international food & drink

Beat the post holiday blues with a taste of your travels closer to home. Local deli introduces new ranges of international food and drink so shoppers can recreate their holiday favourites

Whether it's the unforgettable tapas in Spain, the exotic spices of a trip to the Far East or cheese and wine from across the Channel, enjoying the local food and drink is a key part of any holiday experience.

And to ensure the residents of North Yorkshire don't get too down now the holiday season is over, local deli Hunters of Helmsley has increased its range of international produce so you can recreate your favourite holiday dishes at home this autumn.

Christine Garnett, owner of Hunters of Helmsley, explained: "We are famous for stocking locally produced food and drink and at least 70 per cent of what we sell is from Yorkshire. But we also know that people often try new tastes on holiday which they want to continue to enjoy at home, so we feel it's important to have a wide range of international produce available too. We always see a peak in such sales after the summer holidays, as people try to recapture the memories of relaxing with a leisurely lunch or enjoying the local tittle as the sun goes down."

"We've therefore increased the range of international food and drink we offer this year, so we hope there is something for every kind of vacationer. But if, by some chance, there's something you enjoyed whilst away that we don't have in stock we can always try and track it down for you - come in and have a chat with us!"

Hunters' recommendations for a taste of Holiday Heaven include:

- For the flavours of France try soft cheeses, gently melted in a cheese baker, along with pate, dipping oils, bread - and of course a glass of wine or two! For those who prefer a non-alcoholic tippie, there is also a range of refreshing French Lemonades.
- Tapas is the true taste of Spain and whether its patatas bravas, paella or stuffed peppers, Hunters has everything you need to recreate the country's finest back on home soil.
- Pasta has become a British store-cupboard staple, but in Italy they definitely do it with style! Stock up on a variety of more unusual dried pastas, oils, sauces and cheeses to create some authentic flavours. Or treat yourself to a risotto drizzled with indulgent truffle oil.
- If you were lucky enough to go to Greece, fill your basket with a wide variety of olives, falafel, feta cheeses, oils and dips for a taste which will transport you back.
- Tingle your tastebuds with some authentic Piri Piri sauce from Portugal.
- If you travelled further afield this summer, Hunters has a wide range of exotic spices and chillies from around the world, along with a multitude of Moroccan and Far Eastern delicacies, including dressings, dips and sauces and everything you need to make your own sushi. For a refreshing soft drink enjoyed on many continents, try iced tea in apple, mango and elderflower varieties.
